

Vision vs. Chaos

Your Creative Leadership

November 20, 2008: 4:00 – 7:00 p.m.

Save
the
Date

These are exciting and challenging times to be a leader!

The world anticipates new vision in the workplace, in the community, and in personal interactions. We are faced with rapid and constant change -

- far reaching electronic connections,
- a high priority on innovative ideas and actions,
- high anxiety in the workplace,
- less personal free time
- and split second decision making.

All demand us to delve decisively into the chaos and develop a vision that captures the imagination of what can be.

In this workshop, we will investigate three issues prominent in bringing your vision into focus and developing your creative leadership:

- Aligning values with actions
 - Identifying personal and organizational core values
 - Choosing actions that express core values
- Staying centered in the midst of chaos
 - Claiming self-worth
 - Reframing negative situations
 - Living responsibly
- Communicating vision through shared leadership
 - Intergenerational opportunities
 - The art of active listening
 - Making requests

Location: LEADERSHIP VENTURES
Training Room
303 N. Alabama Street, Suite 250
Indianapolis, IN 46204
(Free Parking provided.)

Date: November 20, 2008

Time: 4:00 – 7:00 p.m.

Price: $40.00 per person;

Facilitators: Tanya Vonnegut Beck,
Associate, Leadership Ventures

Ruth Purcell-Jones
President, Leadership Ventures

REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED!

Contact: Amanda@LeadershipVentures.org or 317.636.5323

Register by November 10th ... space is limited.

Tanya Vonnegut Beck is currently working in leadership consultancy and as a transition facilitator. An Episcopal priest for 30 years and former Harvard University Holbrook Fellow, she serves as Co-Director of the Harvard Medical School Benson/Henry Institute conferences. She founded the Julian Center, Indianapolis, IN and The Pilgrimage Healing Institute, Clearwater, FL.

LEADERSHIP VENTURES